To Whom It May Concern,

Thinking of hiring Corey Penrod of Penrod Construction to build or remodel your house? Well it was never a thought for me. I knew Corey would build my new home.

My name is Kelly Bass-Gould and I am a teacher of 33 years here in Okeechobee County. Corey was one of my kids; I refer to my students as "my kids". When I heard Corey had a construction business I went to him to help me begin the process of designing and building my new home. Corey had no way of knowing if I would choose him to build my home but he never hesitated in helping me find an architect and explaining the whole process. If I didn't understand something, which was often, or I wasn't sure of something, I called Corey. He didn't always answer the phone right away but always got back to me to help me to understand or explain. I brought my plans to him throughout the designing process to help me with dimensions. But he also asked me questions to understand what I wanted a room to look like or where I might place a piece of furniture. He was looking at electrical and plumbing and window and door placement, or which way a door would swing. Aspects I did not consider.

Once I hired Penrod Construction to build my house the personal attention to detail, holding his tradesmen to a high standard, Corey's unwavering patience to answer my many questions, his knowledge of home esthetics, his collaboration of ideas and still keeping me within my budget, which made my husband super happy, made the whole process so much easier!

Clint and I have been in our home for a year now. We could not be happier! The home is exactly what we envisioned. We would highly recommend using Corey and Desiree Penrod of Penrod Construction! Should Clint and I build another home, we would not hesitate in hiring them again.
